Prayer PathWay cover sheets
Some Names of God

A Month of Daily Prayer Themes

Additional Supplies

A binder (this packet fits 8.5" x 11")
Printer and printer paper or loose-leaf notebook paper
Dividers (7 minimum; up to 18 suggested)
Pen or pencil

Optional Extras

A second binder (either 8.5" x 11" or 8.5" x 5.5")
Photographs of people or groups you would like to pray for Scrapbook paper
Markers or colorful pens
Stickers

PREPARE YOUR BINDER

- ♦ Get a binder (or two) from an office supply store. Decide whether you'd prefer a letter-sized binder (8.5" x 11") or a half size (8.5" x 5.5"). I like to leave my binder out on the counter as a prayer reminder throughout my day, so I prefer a smaller size. If you choose to make a family prayer notebook to share, a larger binder might be better.
- ♦ Create a cover (or covers). Some binders have a clear plastic sleeve on the front so that you can design your own cover and slide it in. You might choose to print out favorite verses, photos of people you pray for—anything that will inspire you to grab the notebook to pray! Scrapbooking paper/markers/stickers can make your cover a work of art. (But don't feel the pressure to do an ornate art project if that will derail you from starting a new prayer routine.)

SET UP THE INTERIOR

For a Prayer Notebook

- ♦ Create the sections for the PRAYERS acrostic. Label seven dividers, one for each of the seven steps of Prayer PathWay (Praise, Repent, Ask, Yield, Express Thanks, Rejoice, Shalom).
- ♦ Print out some Prayer Verses pages or use binder paper from the store.
- ♦ Start jotting down some verses and/or quotes that help you to pray!

For a Personal Prayer Planner

- ♦ Print out the forms you will need (My Weekly Prayer Planner, Today's Prayer List, I'm Praying For, Prayer Verses, and PRAYERS Day Trip).
- ♦ Label the first divider for your weekly prayer plan. Insert the Weekly Prayer plan sheet.
- ♦ Label seven dividers, one for each day of the week. Insert the prayer lists for each day. You may wish to add an I'm Praying For form in each section as well.
- ♦ Label one divider for a month of daily prayer. Insert the Month of Daily Prayer Themes form.
- ♦ Label one divider RESOURCES. Print out extra forms and resources so that they're handy when you need them!
- ♦ Label one divider MISCELLANEOUS.

WORK THROUGH THE FORMS

- ♦ Start by filling out My Weekly Prayer Planner. Don't rush this process. Prayerfully think of people, groups, ministries, and others for whom you would like to pray. Revise your chart until you feel satisfied with your plan. I find it helpful to use different colors of ink to designate different prayer groups (e.g., red for my own family, green for extended family, blue for friends, pink for missionaries, black for church and other ministries). If you've never done a list like this before, start small—you may add to it in the future!
- ♦ Transfer each day's list from My Weekly Prayer Planner to that day's Prayer List form. Each day should have its own Today's Prayer List. Write the day in the upper righthand corner. (For example: everything from the Sunday column of your Weekly Prayer Planner should be copied onto a Prayer List form in the Sunday section of your binder.) Write the name of each person or group on an individual I'm Praying For form. For some of the people I pray for, I start this sheet with ongoing prayer needs and with Bible verses that apply (I call these "prayer pointers"). The rest of the page can then be used for specific prayer requests/answers/updates. Some people add photos of those they're praying for. This is a good way to use the Christmas card photos and missionary prayer letters you receive!

EXAMPLE: If you listed your grandparents on your Weekly Prayer Planner in the Monday column, transfer their names to Monday's Today's Prayer List. Then place their names on an I'm Praying For form, along with prayer pointers. Place that page in the Monday section, behind Today's Prayer List. Refer to that sheet if you'd like to be reminded of what to pray or to add more details or requests.

I make extra copies of my Weekly Prayer Planner to put in my Bible, with my calendar, on my bedside table, and on the kitchen cupboard—anyplace where it can catch my eye to remind me to be constant in prayer. I also make a calendar event in my calendar app so that my phone and laptop send me daily reminders of who's on that day's prayer list.

CAUTION: If filling out forms will cause you to get distracted from praying—don't use them! They're meant to be an encouragement to your prayer discipline—not another item on your to-do list.

ANOTHER CAUTION: If you record personal information and prayer requests about yourself or other people, please don't leave your notebook where others can read it or where you could possibly misplace it. Confidentiality is crucial!
